

The Fire Breathing Whale

Fun fact: Do you know how the Titanic sank? From an iceberg. Well I'm trying to prevent that. Haha, just kidding. It was delightful seeing the most "unsinkable" ship in the world sink right before my eyes. Since that happened I've been plotting a plan. I'm going to melt all the icebergs in the ocean so the water level rises, and that means more floods and animals losing their homes, mua ha ha ha!

I love to whack my tail down on the surface of the ocean to make floods and ruin towns and cities. I hate when people try to kill me and chase me down for miles on their beautiful fume spewing vehicles, leaking out oil into the ocean, killing all marine animals in an instant. I am immune to oil so when I smell it I zoom over to see all of my fishy friends dying.

It is my intention to flood all cities, towns and even country's so I can swim around everywhere without even a thought of being attacked by filthy, disgraceful, mindless humans.

By Harvey

